ACCIDENTALLY BE- CAME SMOKER.

How Gen. Grant Happened to Be Addicted to the Use of the Weed.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.—Major Gen. Fred D. Grant, who is presiding at the court martial now in session at Fort Wayne, in the western suburbs of this city, said to some friends here that the cigar that initiated his father, the late President U. S. Grant, into the tobacco smoking habit really figured quite strongly in the winning of the battle at Fort Donelson. Speaking of this incident, Gen. Grant said:

"My father was in conference with Admiral Foote on the latter's flagship and had just accepted a cigar from the Admiral, when word came to him that the left flank of his force was being repulsed. Hurrying soldiers ashore and galloping on a fleet horse to the battlefield, he succeeded in rallying his forces so completely that chaos was turned into victory. Gen.
Buckner had to comply with my father's demand for an unconditional surrender.

"The newspapers took up the fact that father had rushed from the warship to the battlefield without taking Admiral Foote's cigar from his mouth. The dispatches from the front told how father had come onto the battlefield 'cool and collected and peacefully smoking a long black cigar.'"

"People who read the story began sending congratulations and presents of cigars. Tens of thousands of cigars came, and my father smoked many of them. It made a confirmed smoker of him. But he did not smoke as many cigars as people imagined he did. Sometimes one cigar that he would frequently re-light would last him from breakfast to luncheon. It was the fact that he almost constantly held a cigar between his fingers that made people describe him as a great smoker."

Gen. Grant said that his father tried to acquire the smoking habit at West Point just because the rules forbade smoking. His attempts at smoking while he was a cadet, however, made him very sick and when he left West Point he practically gave them up. During the Mexican War, Gen. Grant said, his father took a liking to the Mexican cigars and found that they agreed with him, but when he returned to the North he again dropped the habit of smoking, to resume it after the Fort Donelson incident.

FIRE DRILL PREVENTS PANIC.

Children March in Orderly Manner
From Burning School.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The discipline of the fire drill prevented a panic among 150 school children yesterday, when fire attacked the branch school at Lunt avenue and North Robey street. The building is a frame structure, two stories high.

At the sound of the alarm, the teachers marshaled the children in line, and they made their escape quickly and in good order, despite the fact that the blaze was at the front of the building, the ordinary exit, and egress had to be taken through the rear. The building was saved before any considerable damage had been done.
